About Us

Alopecia Areata is an extreme of local hair loss. It is a patchy hair loss, which may be in the form of a single or multiple patches. Male and female pattern baldness is a result of combination of aging, hormones (androgens/testosterone) and heredity (genetics). Men and women tend to lose hair thickness and amount as they age. Inherited or "pattern baldness" affects many more men than women. About 25% of men begin to bald by the time they are 30 years old, and about two-thirds are either bald or have a balding pattern by age 60. Premature graying of hair

Hair falling Causes:- There may be one or multiple factors leading to hair loss
