About Us

Cobra Legal Solutions LLC did not originate in the hallowed halls of America's or India's major business or law schools. Its founding is more interesting and intensely personal; yet, still a product of the dynamics of globalization. In 1999, John and Becky Douglas tragically lost their daughter, Amber. When John and Becky went through Amber's personal effects, they discovered that Amber had been sending a portion of her college allowance to an orphanage in India. As a tribute to Amber, Becky later traveled to India. She was so moved by the needs of the people that Becky organized a group of friends and started a charitable organization called Rising Star Outreach. Rising Star provides medical, educational and economic assistance to the leprosy-affected families and their children in the colonies of Tamil Nadu, a southern state in India. Becky met and later partnered with Padma Venkatraman, the daughter of a former President of India. Together, Becky and Padma established micro-lending programs in addition to ongoing assistance programs in Tamil Nadu and extended their reach to the fishing villages affected by the 2004 Tsunami. Rising Star relocated its hostel and school during 2007 to a new 13.5 acre facility near Chennai, India, which will ultimately house 300 children and educate 800 children.
