About Us

It is rightly said that "individual commitment to a group effort- that is what makes a team work, a company work, a civilization work." and we at ignisine believe in this concept immensely. Since the time ignisine came into being, we have been transforming the fanciful images which are present in our clients' minds into real, operational end products by using XHTML, CSS3, java script, AJAX, JQuery, DOTNET, PHP, drupal, joomla, word press, HTML5 and photoshop. Our web designers mesh the client's requirements together. He/she would make sure that the web sites appeal to the customers. He/she is responsible for choosing colors, codes, and themes. These products are not only eye-catching but can also be easily used by all and are navigation friendly. Our web designers also checks whether the site is capable of being browsed on miniature computing devices. We also decide where to fit in advertising and whether to use XML or html. A web with a steady influx of new browsers like safari, opera, and firefox, it is the responsibility of a designer to make sure that his or her site can ride through this tide. Content should also be accessible to disabled users.
