Thomson Press has been in operation for over 40 years and is part of the India Today Group a major multimedia company having interests in printing, publishing, internet, television and radio.

About Us

Founded in 1967 by Lord Thomson of Fleet, Founder of Thomson Corporation (one of the biggest publishers in the world), in partnership with current owners who are now the majority shareholders. It was initially involved in the distribution of publications of a large number of overseas publishers, and printing of children's books for export. In 1974 the focus shifted to printing of the group's prestigious publication India Today. As of date apart from a number of prestigious magazines printed for various publishing houses, Thomson Press also prints high quality commercial POS items and books for the domestic and export markets.

Each of our four printing units and two Repro units has developed its own unique strengths and areas of expertise, providing our customers with a strong support structure across an extensive range of printing services.

Absolute commitment to quality, meticulous attention to detail and unparalleled level of service have made Thomson Press a leading specialist in Design, Prepress, Printing and distribution services. As a company we are committed to employing dedicated staff, investing in the very best technology available and maintaining a close involvement with the industry.

The product range covers books in monochrome and multicolour, coffee table and children's books, school textbooks, dated products and also thin paper products including Bibles & dictionaries for domestic and international markets. Thomson Press...
