About Us

We APPIX offering a range of curriculums for people with diverse requirements, from engineering college students to IT professionals needing basic to advanced training..... We believe in staying lead position of competition and teach our candidates to become market standards with latest technologies that help them to grow their career. We understand that there is a big gap between requirements and the courses offered by colleges and training institutes. Besides most of the education is spoon fed and there has been literally no innovation in knowledge delivery over last ten years. We are here to change the way and bring up a new breed of people who are innovative and skilled. Our in-house developers are the trainers in our training programs. And they have more than 5-7 years experience in IT industry. By that candidate can get more practical knowledge with latest technologies from them. In our training programs candidate can learn both technical & professional approaches according to the current industry standards.
