About Us

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge. It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence. Playing a leading role in today's global market place, we have over 50 offices around the globe, and distribute our products to nearly every country in the world. Our books are truly global in content, presentation, approach and recognition. We provide materials supporting various school board curricula in almost every subject and at every level, including online assessment and resources, and training services for teachers. As an international publisher, we publish material intended to stimulate lively debate at the frontier of scholarship. We are a major publishing presence in fields as diverse as engineering, astronomy, biology, physics, mathematics, medicine, politics, sociology, history, economics, anthropology, and security studies.
