About Us

The name, in a way, spelt out the intended ambit of the firm's activities: relocation of household goods. There have always been many players of this game; but, after the first few tentative steps, the new baby gained confidence and became an expert. This is a brief history of our company's beginnings.

From those small beginnings, our company has grown and grown and grown. And the growth has been remarkably rapid. What started off as a small business has now become one of India's reputed companies. To reflect the vastly increased scope of activities, a suitable name was required.

We started our service with, one office and a small team. And, now the business is growing impressively. We have successfully managed to grow and possess a team of creative and experienced professionals working with customers from all the corners of the world. It was a family-operated business. And, though the business has grown, we have a stable company with professionals. From the very first day, quality of service has been our core principle. That is why there are no franchisees. Franchising carries the risk of dilution of standards.
