BALSONA INDUSTRIAL PAINTS ensures specific SOLUTIONS TO SPECIFIC PROBLEMS whether it is a particular shade that needs development, special climatic factors that need to be provided for.

About Us

Paint is used to protect, preserve, decorate (such as adding color), or add functionality to an object or surface by covering it with a pigmented coating. Examples of protection are the covering of metal to retard corrosion, and the painting of a house to help protect it from the elements. An example of decoration is to add festive trim to a room's interior. Paint may be used to add functionality by modifying light reflection or heat radiation of a surface. Another example of functionality is the use of color to identify hazards or to identify the function of equipment, such as pipelines or military ammunition.

When sourcing industrial coatings, you can be certain that custom coatings and finishes capture your desired look and offer high quality material. Even the most difficult specifications you demand, can be met, as our many years of experience will accommodate your needs. If you have a special project or job that you are working on and need a quote on large quantities of various products please email us or call us and let us know more about your needs and we will do our best to assist you or your company.

Whatever your challenge, you can choose from a wide range of polyurethanes, epoxies, alkyds and acrylic coatings designed for tough environments and difficult surface conditions.
