About Us

DCS is an evolving IT services company, working with clients in the areas that impact and redefine the core of their businesses. Since its inception, DCS focuses on 'Customized software development & web designing', underlined by innovation and value creation, and offers integrated portfolio of services. DCS leverages its team members' experiences to provide holistic, multi-service delivery in various industry verticals. DCS offers the full cycle of development, customization and integration services of enterprise information management systems, including analysis, architecture creation, prototyping and configuration as well as information technology consulting.

Today DCS is facilitating the integration of information, employees, customers and processes across businesses through Customized software and content management solutions built specially for our customers.

Our highly exposed professional developers, designers, and analysts share a common passion - they are driven to turning challenging tasks into simple solutions!

With DCS information management is easy!

Our core strengths lie in product conceptualization, design, development, and leverage of emerging technologies in the Microsoft and Web 2.0 space. We enable our customers to scale product development capacity, improve R&D economics, and accelerate new technology adoption in ways that enrich their product functionality, user experience (UEX), and...
