About Us

Déanta's Irish name, means "fully fledged", and this defines our approach to all aspects of our service. From the outset, Deanta is more than just a service provider, but a partner to our clients, working with them to ensure utmost quality and a seamless process in bringing their content to life. With over 15 years' experience in the publishing industry, Deanta's management understands the commitment and dedication needed to achieve great results. Of particular importance, our Project Managers take responsibility for each publication from start to finish, coordinating the schedule, production teams, and external partners. Deanta operates out of Dublin, Ireland, as well as Chennai, India. Above all else, Deanta focuses on your unique publishing needs. We customise a workflow to fit the particular needs of each publisher, rather than adopting the traditional "one size fits all" approach, common with other service providers. This customer focus is reflected in our responsiveness, our open communication and our ability to meet changing requirements and the fast evolving needs of the modern day publisher. For the Deanta team, quality is a priority from the start.
