About Us

The city of Kota (previously spelt Kotah) is situated at the center of the southeastern region of Rajasthan, a region widely known as Hadaoti (Hadavati), the land of the Handas. The Hadas are a major branch of the great Chauhan clan of the Agnikula (fire dynasty) Rajputs. They had settled in the hilly terrain of Mewar near Bijolian at Bambaoda in the 12th and Kota in 1264 (some writers date both these events exactly 100 years later). Originally, all this formed the Hada state of Bundi with Kota as the jaghir (land grant) of the oldest prince of Bundi. Kota later became a separate state in 1624. The domain of the Hadas of Bundi and Kota extended from the hills of Bundi in the west to the Malwa plateau in the east. With a similar expanse north to south. The state of Jhalawar was formed in 1838. Out of Kota territory. Hadaoti is an expanse of fertile plain having rich black-cotton soil. It is watered by several rivers, giving it a verdant look. The largest and the only perennial river of Rajasthan, the Chambal (Charmanyavati), rises in the south and flows through this territory to join the Jamuna in the north.
