About Us

We provide complete customized solutions for magnetics as well as an array of value-added electronic manufacturing services.

Hical was established in 1988 and we have been a 100 percent EOU from 1997. We have grown rapidly to become the partner of choice for leading corporations across Europe, USA and Asia, supplying professional grade transformers and other complex wound components.

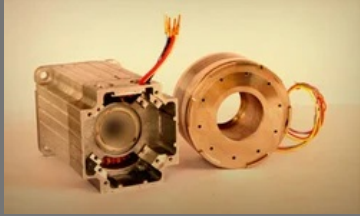

We commenced electronic manufacturing services in response to customer demand for a single, accountable source. We have successfully transferred complete manufacturing lines to Hical for cameras, telecom modules, telecom components and power converters. Each transfer has added to the depth of our expertise and strengthened our engineering, operations and project management skills.
