Home Budgeting

Planning a Family or Personal Budget

How to create your own home budget.

Understand and Estimate your Current Spending Patterns

- Track your monthly spending and try to account for every Rupee spent.
- For the next month or two, think very closely about how your money is spent.
- Every time you buy something, pay a bill, or dispose of any of your money, make a strong mental note of what it is being spent on.
- Better, at the end of each day write down list of expenditure and for what it was used on a piece of paper.
- Try to think critically about each Rupee spent and whether or not it was a required expense.

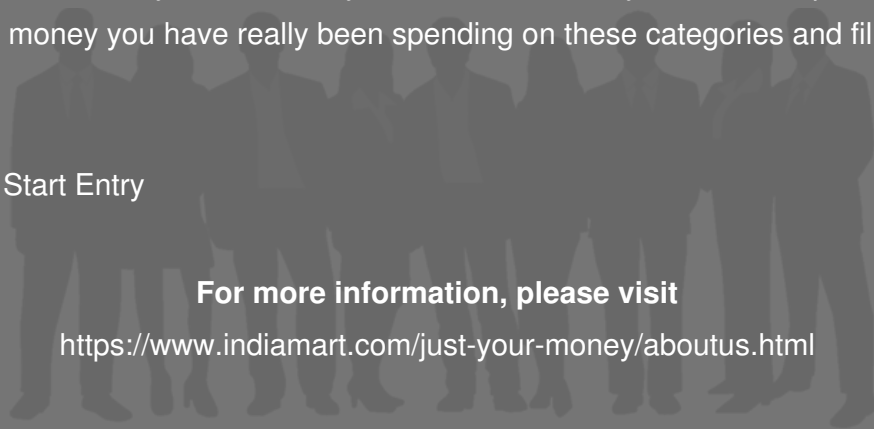

Create your current budget.

- Now it's time to create your Home or Personal Budget.
- To do this, you need to quantify all of the spending patterns.
- You need a budget to check if you are on the right track to savings and investments.
- A budget will also keep a (%) tab on your daily spending habits.
- So be sure not to overlook small or routine expenses.
- Be realistic and honest with yourself and try not under estimate your actual expenses.
- Think how much money you have really been spending on these categories and fill in realistic amounts.
