About Us

Frustrated with what everyone calls this fascinating craft "Advertising" With everything that relates to what is known as client servicing except the much needed 'Business Ideation' With everything that is called graphic designing except the much sought for 'Communication Strategizing' and then, what was stymied us was the advertisers' situation where for want of nothing better, having to do with what is available. the various ' What you have then, is a complete map of Mindscapes including the creative capabilities to effectively convert your brief into a systematic, data driven, effective and result predictive communication. And, when you get these, would you be worried of price or would you care to save the costs. Mindscapes brings to the table an average agency experience of 27 years that spans over a plethora of assignments in an equally myriad industry verticals. We realized that if we were to even try to change this situation (quite an uphill task!), we needed people who will not only give their time but also their faith and determination (not to mention their sperm & ova) to bring to life this dying craft.
