Best Foods to Eat for Breakfast

Start your day off right

Idli:

Idlis are full of vitamins, minerals and carbohydrates. They are prepared with no oil or masala, which makes them a very healthy alternative. Try eating your idli with honey, nutela or peanut butter if you are too lazy to make the chutney.

Dosa:

Dish out a whole wheat dosa, famously called adhai, for breakfast if you are bored of your cereal and oats. A healthy option, it is packed with multiple nutrients that will help kick start your day. Pre-mixed dosa batters are available at a number of stores and all you need to do cook and enjoy.
