We are engaged in the process of manufacturing, exporting and supplying of conductor machinery. These are based on latest technology and are known for high performance, low maintenance and easy operation.

About Us

With the combination of fair business practices, low cost production, advanced machines and hardworking professional staff, we, “Sachin Engineering Works” have increased our client base throughout the country in a quick time. Established in the year 1995, our company has vast experience in the process of manufacturing, exporting and supplying different types of conductor machinery for various industrial applications. These are manufactured in a manner that assures low power consumption, longer service life and easy to operate and install features.

In the past many years, the company has recruited highly experienced engineers and technicians, who with the help of contemporary machines and technologies produce superior quality products. We have a brilliant team of quality experts for taking care of the testing process of the products on different parameters. Client satisfaction is one of the main objectives of our company and for this, we offer customized solutions to the customers on all the products. Under this, our clients can purchase the machinery according to their specific needs and demands.

We are blessed with the able guidance of our mentor, 'Mr. R. L. Sharma', who has over 35 years experience in the field of conductor machinery production and its supply. His long time efforts have helped us in the growth of the company. He has also nourished the company from its grass root level to what it is today.
