About Us

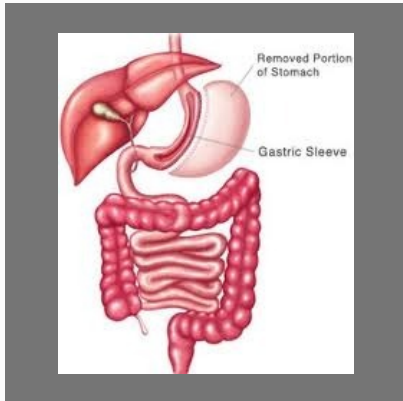

Obesity is a disease that affects 34 percent of adults age 20 and over in India.. Currently, almost 1 in 5 men and over 1 in 6 women are overweight. In some urban areas, the rates are as high as 40%. India is now in the grip of an obesity epidemic and the trend needs to be immediately arrested by taxing junk food, restricting food ads and making food labelling clearer, according to a study. New study released by the Registrar General of India indicates that obesity-related diseases have joined malnutrition as leading causes of death. If maintained, even weight losses as small as 10 percent of body weight can improve your health. Knowing the various reasons that people become obese can help you understand your own struggle more clearly.
