About Us

Samuel Hahnemann was an allopathic M. D. and he didn't like many concepts and methods used in his time. He challenged many brutal ways of treatment and was frustrated with the state of the patients. Finally he left his allopathic practice and decided to translate many books. Dr. Hahnemann was an erudite physician and he was conversant with many languages. It was Almighty's desire that Hahnemann started translating Cullen's Materia Medica and there he found a sentence that Cinchona bark cures Malaria because it has capacity to produce malaria like symptoms. In order to know the modus operandi of Cinchona, he decided to experiment on himself and on others and finally came to the conclusion that the sentence is right and this sentence actually is based on the nature's Law of healing.
